

SCHEME TO THWART
PROGRESSIVE VOTE

Former Progressives Have Every Legal Right to Call for Republican Ballot in Primary.

STATEMENT OF ED C. TONER

Highest Tribunal in Indiana Gives Clear Interpretation of The Privileges of Voters.

"Whoever, for the purpose of influencing a voter, seeks, by violence or threats of violence or threats to enforce the payment of a debt; or to eject or threaten to eject from any house he may occupy; or begin a criminal prosecution; or to injure the business or trade of an elector; or if an employer of laborers or an agent of such employer threatens to withhold the wages of or to dismiss from service any laborer in his employment; or refuses to allow to any such employee time to attend at the place of election and vote, shall be fined not more than one thousand dollars nor less than twenty dollars, imprisoned in the state prison not more than five years nor less than one year, and disfranchised and rendered incapable of holding any office of trust or profit for any determinate period."—Burn's Revised Statutes.

A movement fostered and encouraged apparently by forces opposing the Republican party has been inaugurated the last few days in an attempt to prevent former Progressives from voting in the Republican primaries. That the movement originated at the eleventh hour before the primary shows that it is fathered by forces that oppose the Republican party and which realize that Democratic success hinges entirely on a divided Republican party.

The statement that has been sent out is doubtless due to misinterpretation of the law. Voters who have familiarized themselves with the recent decision of the Indiana supreme court which was given in the case of Mote vs. Cassidy know the notice is based on a wrong idea of the law. The Indiana election says specifically that anyone who attempts to influence a voter by "Criminal Prosecution," is liable to punishment by fine and imprisonment upon conviction.

The recent supreme court decision clearly stated that a member of one party could not challenge the vote of anyone affiliated and voting with another party. For instance if a Progressive desires to vote the Republican ticket in the primary tomorrow his vote can be challenged only by a Republican. No Democrat or Progressive can challenge his vote.

Ed C. Toner, of Anderson, former Progressive state chairman, characterizes the new movement as a "democratic trick." In a recent editorial he said he voted the Progressive ticket in 1912 and 1914 and that he will call for a Republican ballot tomorrow in the primary. He adds: "All the Democrats in Madison County wouldn't be able to stop him if they tried, but they won't, because a Supreme Court decision prevents them making his effort."

On entering the polls the voter is required to call for the ballot of his political faith. If the Republicans do not challenge a voter calling for the Republican ballot a member of no other party has power to do so. This is made very plain and clear in the supreme court decision. The Republicans will not challenge the vote of any former Progressive in the primary tomorrow. Will H. Hays, the Republican state chairman, and other Republican leaders invite the progressives to vote with the Republican party.

Whoever sent out the letter threatening former Progressives against voting the Republican ticket evidently overlooked the law which provides a heavy fine, imprisonment or both for endeavoring to intimidate a voter. It is perfectly clear, however, that any Progressive or Democrat, for that matter, who desires to vote the Republican ballot in the primary may do so unless he is challenged by a Republican without any liability upon his part. Carl H. Mote, a former Progressive living in Indianapolis, carried his case against his neighbor Cassidy in order to get a supreme court ruling on the question. But in the absence of such ruling there is nothing in the primary law which could be interpreted as laying any liability upon Progressives desiring to vote with Republicans.

A copy of the letter which has been sent out was received by a local Republican who voted the Progressive ticket in 1912 and 1914. He immediately brought it to this office with the request that the false statements contained therein might be corrected for the guidance of any former Progressive who might be misled by the intimations and threats which are groundless, untrue and impossible.

No Progressive need fear to call for a Republican ballot at the primary. As was said before, the interpretation given the law by the lately issued circulars was never even dreamed of except by those forces which are opposed to the Republican party and which would resort to any means to interfere with its success and advancement and to bring about their own selfish aims.

SPARK CAUSES FIRE AT HOME OF SEBA A. BARNES

Loss of Not Less Than $550 Results
From Flames, Smoke and Water
Sunday Morning.

SECTION OF HOUSE DAMAGED

Fire damage not less than $550 was done at the home of Seba A. Barnes, North Walnut street, Sunday morning. The flames are believed to have originated from a spark from the chimney which fell between the second floor and the roof. Fire Chief Walter Everhart made an investigation today and found that it was hardly possible that the fire could have started from a defective electric light wire as the point of origin was some distance from any wire.

As the fire started under the roof it had gained considerable headway before it was discovered. When the firemen reached the scene after prompt response to the call they found that the flames were threatening the entire house and that the chemical extinguisher would be inadequate. Accordingly, a line of hose was laid and damage exceeding $200 resulted from the water.

The rear section of the residence, including the dining room and pantry down stairs and a hall, bedroom and a large closet upstairs were damaged. There was also considerable loss on contents. The house has hardwood floors both on the first and second floors and these were damaged by the water. Several rooms will have to be replastered and repapered. The large rug in the dining room was also ruined by water and smoke. The loss is placed at not less than $300 on the house and $250 on the contents fully covered by insurance.

SPECIAL SESSION OF GRAND JURY TO BE HELD THURSDAY

Prosecutor Woolery Asks That Body
Meet to Investigate John Russell Case.

Prosecutor Woolery this afternoon asked Judge Swails to call the grand jury in special session to investigate the case of John Russell, town marshal of Brownstown, charged with voluntary manslaughter. The charge was preferred against him several weeks ago, following the death of Harry Durham, of Brownstown, who died after he was shot while Russell was arresting him. It is understood that the prosecutor desired a grand jury session so that he might be informed as to the nature of the evidence.

LOCAL SCHEDULE IS ANNOUNCED

Eleven High School Teams To Contest For Basket Ball Honors
Here Friday and Saturday.

LOCALS START WITH N. VERNON

Seymour Team Expecting to Win, But Will Have Strenuous Program
Mapped Out for Them.

Eleven high school basket ball teams will fight it out among themselves at the local high school gymnasium Friday and Saturday for the honor of representing this district in the state tournament at Bloomington on the following Friday and Saturday. The schedule for the games here, which was made out by the Indiana High School Athletic Association Saturday, is as follows:

—Friday Afternoon.—

Hours and Teams. Officials.
2:00—Scottsburg and Vevay.....1
3:00—Seymour and North Vernon.2
4:00—Osgood and Moorefield.....1

—Friday Evening.—

7:30—Madison and Milan.....2
8:30—Austin and Freetown.....1
—Saturday Morning.—

9:00—Crothersville and winner 2 p. m.....2
10:00—Winner 3 p. m. and winner 4 p. m.....1

—Saturday Afternoon.—

2:00—Winner 7:30 p. m. and winner 8:30 p. m.....2
3:00—Winner 9 a. m. and winner 10 a. m.....1

—Saturday Evening.—

8:00—Winner 2 p. m. and winner 3 p. m.....2
Officials—(1) Leroy Cooke; (2) John M. Thurber.

Many of the contesting schools are planning to send delegations of rooters along with their teams and preparations are being made to handle a big crowd. The gymnasium will doubtless prove too small to accommodate all who will want to see the games, as each one of the schools is entitled to its share of tickets.

Of the teams which will play here, the Osgood, Madison, Vevay and Moorefield teams are uncertain quantities. Madison is usually on the local schedule, but for some reason was not scheduled this year. Unless one of these teams shows up unexpectedly strong, local high school followers expect their team to win the trip to Bloomington.

Having already defeated North Vernon twice, both times by big scores, they should win their first game easily. This would put them against either Osgood or Moorefield in their second game on Saturday morning. Winning in this game would mean that on Saturday afternoon they would stack up against either Crothersville or the winner of the Scottsburg-Vevay set-to, and at eight o'clock Saturday evening would fight it out with one of the other two winners, either Madison or Austin, figuring these two teams to win from Milan and Freetown respectively.

Both officials assigned to work in the games here are well known, Cooke having refereed in the tournament games last year, while Thurber, who is coach at Franklin College, worked here one summer with the boy scouts. T. H. Montgomery, who has refereed most of the high school contests here this season, has been assigned to Bedford, and will work in half of the games to be played there.

There will be sixteen sectional tournaments held on these dates, which will be participated in by one hundred and ninety-eight teams from all parts of the state. Winners of these sixteen district meets will fight it out at Bloomington for the state championship.

INSPECTORS ARE SCHOOLED

Candidates Completing Their Campaigns and are Anxiously Awaiting the Returns.

Arrangements have been made for the first general primary election tomorrow that has ever been held in Indiana. The inspectors were given their supplies Saturday and at the same time full instructions as to the manner of recording the vote were given by the county board of election commissioners, representative of the three leading political parties.

It is not probable that any of the complete returns will be filed before early Wednesday morning. The board of the various precincts will not attempt to tabulate the vote. Each board will be supplied with tally sheets as provided by law and the first and second choice votes of each candidate will be recorded thereon. The ballots and the tally sheets will be taken to Brownstown by the inspectors as soon as the counting is completed and the vote will then be tabulated by the canvassing board.

It is probable that in the case of close contests the returns will be delayed for several hours, and it would not be surprising if the complete returns were delayed until Thursday night. The first and second choice votes cannot be counted as rapidly as under the former system when only first choice votes were cast, but Albert H. Ahlbrand, one of the election commissioners, said today that the inspectors had been so thoroughly schooled in the manner of recording the votes that he did not believe that any serious delay would result.

The voting precincts will be open at 6 o'clock tomorrow morning and will remain open until 6 o'clock p. m. As soon as the polls close the task of counting the ballots will begin immediately.

On the eve of the primary election the candidates are confident of their success. Some of them made short trips throughout the country today to look after matters pertaining to the primary and others remained at home, believing that their work had been finished and are now leaving the selection to the voters.

MRS. KATHERINE LOWATER
PASSES AWAY IN NEW ALBANY

Former Resident of This County Dies at Home of Her Daughter at Age of Eighty-one.

Mrs. Katherine Lowater, widow of the late William Lowater, died Sunday afternoon at the home of her daughter, Mrs. George Huffman, in New Albany, where she had been making her home for the past ten months. FEDERAL PROSECUTORS ON GUARD FOR VIOLATIONS

Joseph R. Roach Confers at Length
Today with District Attorney Slack.

By United Press.

Indianapolis, March 6.—With Indiana preparing to hold its first general primary tomorrow many rumors of political plots were given some color today when Joseph R. Roach, the attorney who collected most of the evidence for the prosecution in federal court of Mayor Donn M. Roberts, of Terre Haute, called on United States District Attorney Slack and was closeted with him for more than an hour.

Roach has been calling on Slack frequently of late, it was learned today. Although Roach refused to make a statement it is known that he has been keeping watch on the situation in Terre Haute and Indianapolis and it is understood his activity has been confined to the operations of politicians for tomorrow's primary.

LESS POSSIBILITY OF
BREAK WITH GERMANY

This is Berlin's Interpretation of Senate's Action in Supporting President.

PRESS HAS VARIED OPINIONS

(By Carl W. Ackerman, United Press Staff Correspondent.)

Berlin, March 6.—The senate's vote of confidence in President Wilson Friday night has lessened the possibilities of a German-American break, well informed Americans who have canvassed the situation thoroughly reported to-day.

Officials and the public are somewhat puzzled at the exact meaning of the senate vote, but it was believed that it strengthens the hands of those, who, though desiring a submarine war, do not want to take any chances of a break with America.

The newspapers differ widely in their interpretation of the senate's action. For the most part they agree the senate, seemingly, voted to keep hands off the German-American controversy excepting in a case likely to result in war.

SUPREME COURT UPHOLDS

Washington and Florida Statutes Are

Court in Washington.

By United Press.

Washington, March 6.—Upholding the laws of Florida and Washington aimed at trading stamps and free coupon companies, the supreme court today practically maintained the right of state to stop the use of such coupons by prohibitory legislation.

Indianapolis, March 6.—The action of the supreme court in Washington upholding the Florida and Washington trading stamp laws was hailed at the attorney-general's office here today as indicating that the same action would follow the case filed by the attorney-general. The Indiana law is similar to that in Florida and Washington.

NEWTON D. BAKER
IS WAR SECRETARY

Former Mayor of Cleveland Appointed by President Wilson to Succeed Secretary Garrison.

PROTEGE OF TOM JOHNSON

Appointee Fills Requirement, that of Being an Attorney from the Middle West.

By United Press.

Washington, March 6.—Newton D. Baker, aged forty-five, twice mayor of Cleveland, O., disciple of Tom Johnson and effective support of President Wilson at the Baltimore convention, will be secretary of war in the President's cabinet. Admission was made at the White House today.

Baker who twice declined the invitation to become secretary of the interior when the President was first forming the cabinet, was selected for the place made vacant by Garrison's resignation.

In the appointment of Baker, the President, it is said, meets a qualification which it has been intimated is considered important—that the new secretary be an attorney from the middle west. He has had the rough and tumble experience of politics, being a long term pupil of Tom Johnson.

BAKER CONFIRMS DISPATCH
THAT HE HAS BEEN NAMED

Known as a Pacifist but is Back of President in Latter's Preparedness Policy.

By United Press.

Cleveland, March 6.—Newton D. Baker confirmed the United Press dispatch that he had accepted the offer of President Wilson to be secretary of War.

"I have accepted the post," said Baker, after the official announcement was made in Washington. "I do not know definitely when I will leave for Washington, but it will surely be within a week. I do not know the duties of the office and I shall have all these to learn."

Baker has always been known as a pacifist. At a big citizens' meeting in Cleveland recently he was boosted as the man to bring about peace in the world's war when the time is ripe.

When he ceased to be pacifist and became an advocate of preparedness Baker said:

"I am still a member in good standing of several peace societies." "But you believe in the president's preparedness policy, do you not," was the next question.

"I do," he said. "I believe in all the president's policies so far as I know them."

Baker smiled but declined to make any comment when asked whether he believed his recent telegram to Senator Pomerene had anything to do with clinching his appointment.

The telegram was sent when the Congress-Wilson difference over the German submarine policy began. It said:

"Opinion is wholly with the president. He will undoubtedly save the honor of the country, but cannot something be done to save the party which at present is a dismal failure?"

This comment was made Saturday by Baker, on the tabling of the Gore resolution by the senate.

"I am quite sure no European power will misinterpret that action." Baker is a slim man with a wrinkled face. He is noted here for the rapidity with which he canvasses facts and forms opinions.

BRYAN CONFERS WITH LEADERS

May Direct Fight In House For Resolution.

ADMINISTRATION CONFIDENT

Should the Situation In Congress Turn Against the President, He Will Make a Direct Appeal to the Country For Support.

Washington, March 6.—The influence of William Jennings Bryan will be felt in the fight over the armed ship issue, which administration leaders plan to bring to a vote in the house Tuesday.

Mr. Bryan, who outlined his views in favor of warning Americans off armed merchantmen to Representative Stephens of Nebraska, came back from New York to spend the day here where he met and lunched with Representative Bailey of Pennsylvania at a hotel within a stone's throw of the capitol, and in which eight congressmen make their homes.

Fear is expressed that the desertion of two Democratic members of the rules committee may defeat their purpose to shut off debate in the house on the McLemore resolution, which comes up Tuesday.

This measure which requests the president to issue a proclamation, warning Americans to refrain from travel on armed ships will be tabled, if the president's wishes are observed. Administration spokesmen were hopeful of curtailing discussion, fearing that such action would strengthen those who favor standing by the president in this emergency.

The senate will resume debate on the armed merchantmen issue. Senators Gore, McCumber and Jones have signified a purpose to force another vote, if possible, on the merits of the issue. The administration does not fear the outcome of such a test, but deprecates the prospect of continued discussion of the question in the senate.

The president and state department officials await with impatience the receipt here of the appendices to the German submarine declaration embodying the British secret orders which direct British merchantmen, according to submarines. This data, forwarded to the United States by Ambassador Gerard, is supposed to have reached New York on the Rotterdam. On consideration of the so-called "secret orders," and a termination of the trouble in congress, the president will be ready to make response to the German declaration that its submarine commanders will fire without warning on merchantmen armed for offensive operations.

Despite the flareup in the house administration officials are confident that that body will follow the lead of the senate by voting disapproval of any effort in congress to interfere with the president in the conduct of foreign affairs. The basis of this confidence, it was said, is the president's conviction that he has the country with him in the issue that he has raised.

The prediction was made that if the situation in congress should turn against the president this week, Mr. Wilson will make a direct appeal to the country for support. It was pointed out that this could be done by the issuance of a statement setting forth all facts and the principle at stake as the president views it.

ADVOCATE AID TO ALLIES

Federal Officials Deplore Call For Mass Meeting In New York.

Washington, March 6.—Announcement of the American rights committee to call a mass meeting in New York city in advocacy of American participation in the war on the side of the entente allies, created a stir in official circles. A hurried inquiry was made as to the practicability of taking steps to prevent the meeting, but the opinion prevails among government officials that no legal means is open for accomplishing this.

Officials said freely that the committee's proposal is in direct violation of the president's appeal to the country for "moral neutrality," between the belligerents of Europe, but it was pointed out that the president's utterance was an appeal to the country and nothing more, and that he has no legal power to enforce it.

GERMAN RAIDER MOEWE ARRIVES IN PORT SAFE

Fifteen Vessels Captured In Bold Cruise.

Berlin (via Amsterdam), March 6.—A storm of enthusiasm, such as has been equalled only in the case of the famous Emden, greeted an announcement of the admiralty that the Moewe, German raider, which, since the beginning of the year, has held mysterious sway on the high seas, notably in mid-Atlantic, arrived "in a German port."

She brought with her, according to the announcement, 1,000,000 marks in gold bars ($250,000), and 402 prisoners taken from a total number of fifteen allied vessels, with the exception of one French and one Belgian, all British, aggregating a tonnage of nearly 60,000 tons.

Of these fifteen vessels, the majority were sunk, the admiralty says, while a small part were sent as prizes to neutral ports.

The Moewe, according to the statement, not only wrought havoc on allied maritime commerce by sinking or capturing nearly everything that came into its path, but was also engaged in sowing mines along what is described as the enemy coast. It was one of the Moewe's mines, the admiralty avers, which caused the sinking on Jan. 9 last of the British dreadnought Edward VII, from which every one of the 777 men aboard was saved by British rescue vessels.

The home port into which the German raider finally brought her prisoners and booty is not designated by the admiralty, nor is it believed that it will be made known.

WILL ATTEND CONVENTIONS

Large Delegations of Suffragettes Will Be at St. Louis and Chicago.

Washington, March 6.—Delegations of women that will far outnumber delegates of the two political parties will attend the Democratic and Republican conventions, according to a statement issued here.

The chief purpose behind the move is to secure in each platform of these two parties a plank favoring votes for women. Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, president, is now in the field devoting her energies to plans for the selection of these delegates. State suffrage organizations representing congressional districts, counties, cities, precincts and every other political unit, are co-operating with the national association of women at every stage.

St. Paul, Minn., March 6.—The Rev. Henry Jakeski, pastor of St. Casimir's Polish Roman Catholic church here, was shot and killed at the church by a woman in the presence of several members of his congregation.

Threats of violence were made and the woman was hurried to a police station.

Through an interpreter the woman gave her name as Agnes Dudeke, and her age as thirty-eight. She gave as her motive for killing the priest that he had wronged her.

Man and Dog Die Together.

Richmond, Ind., March 6.—The frozen body of Charles Macy, thirty-five years old, a blind man living near Hagerstown, Ind., who disappeared from his home several days ago during a heavy snowstorm, has been found in a woods only a short distance from his residence. Lying across his master was the frozen body of a Collie dog. Tracks about the man's body indicated that the dog had fought off hogs and had attempted to drag his dead master out of the woods.

DEFENSE BILL REACHES HOUSE

Hay Measure Provides For 140,000 Men.

PROGRESS IN ARMY PROGRAM

Will Probably Be Debated Upon Next Week and Passed Substantially as Submitted—Hearings on the Naval Bill Are Continued.

Washington, March 6.—The first of the national defense bills providing for the increase of the regular army and the expansion of the militia system, was reported to the house by Representative Hay.

The Hay bill comes in the wake of the measure practically agreed upon by the senate military affairs committee, which was introduced by Senator Chamberlain.

The house bill provides for a regular army with a peace strength of 140,000 men, and a war strength of 176,000, an increase of 40,000 men and 7,439 officers. The bill drafted by the senate committee provides for a regular army with a peace strength of 178,000 men and a war footing of 250,000 men.

By providing for the gathering up of all men who have served with the regular army or who have received military training in one form or another and adding them to the regular army and militia forces, Mr. Hay estimates that on the enactment of the house bill there will be at once available for defense 1,324,700 men.

Like the same senate measure the house bill provides for the expansion and reorganization of the national guard as a defense force. The cost of the house committee's plan when carried out, is estimated at $141,704,846, an increase of approximately $46,000,000 of the regular army estimates for the fiscal year 1917. The estimated cost of the plan for the first year is $116,000,000 and at the end of the fifth year $137,000,000.

With the presentation of the army bill to the house the administration is able to report progress on its defense program. The army measure will come up for debate next week. As it is backed by a unanimous report by the committee it probably will be passed substantially as submitted. In the meantime hearings on the naval bill continue with prospects that the budget will be reported early in April.

The leaders expect that the entire defense program which is being originated in the house, will be before the house on or about May 1. The house will then seriously give attention to a revenue bill to gain the needed funds to give force to the defense program.

INSANE MAN SHOTS FIVE

Kills One and Wounds Two Men and Two Women.

Philadelphia, March 6.—A man believed to be insane stood in the doorway of a house in the southern part of the city, with a repeating rifle in his hands, and before he was overpowered he shot and killed one man and wounded two men and two women.

Without any warning the man, who is Antonio Pronogo, age twenty-nine, emerged from the house and taking his stand on the doorstep raised his rifle and shot at every one who came within range.

One of his victims was a blind peddler, who was shot through the body and fell dead after running a short distance.

Pronogo gave battle to policemen, but was subdued and arrested.

THREE KILLED; FIVE HURT

Top, or Roof, In Mine Falls Upon Men at Work.

Shenandoah, Pa., March 6.—Three men were instantly killed and five injured at Maple Hill colliery by a fall of coal, rock and slate. The dead are Thomas Dormer and John Sucavage of this city; Stephen Opeck. The injured are: Anthony Bozna, Anthony Dopkin, John McAlister, John Mozar and Robert Hays.

The men were on extra duty repairing an old breast. One of the men, it is said, pulled out an old prop supporting the "top" or roof, and a large quantity of coal, rock and slate fell, burying Dormer, Sucavage and Opeck under it. The five men had a narrow escape from meeting a similar fate.

Mother and Children In Cave.

Jethro, Ark., March 6.—Mrs. Minnie Tucker, her ten-year-old son and her eight-year-old daughter were found lying in a cave on Black Rock mountain by officers. The woman put up a strong fight when the authorities took her children. The three were clothed in rags. The children were ill.

Shock In Bathtub Kills.

Toledo, O., March 6.—Mrs. Bertram Bellows, age twenty-two, wife of a real estate dealer and daughter of a furniture merchant, was killed by electricity in her bathtub when she tried to remove a portable electric lamp which had fallen into the tub. Her husband was absent in Buffalo on business.

HOOK MURDER TRIAL BEGINS AT WINAMAC

Father and Son Accused of Slaying Cris Fout.

Winamac, Ind., March 6.—After weeks of delay, the cases of Samuel and William Hook, father and son, charged with the murder of Cris Fout, nineteen years old, near Knox, in Stark county, was called in the Pulaski county circuit court. The crime was committed Oct. 21 at the home of Ida May Hook, mother of the dead boy and wife of Samuel Hook by a second marriage.

Hook and his son, it is alleged, after arming themselves with a shotgun and revolver, hired an automobile and drove to the home of the boy to get a horse, the possession of which was claimed by Hook and the woman.

Young Fout also was armed and a gun battle followed an altercation between the men. Fout's body was found lying on the bed with wounds inflicted by the shotgun, while three bullet wounds were found on William Hook's body and one on the body of Samuel Hook. After the tragedy the men drove back to Knox and surrendered to the sheriff of the county.

The trial was transferred here on a change of venue.

FIRST PRESIDENTIAL PRIMARY

Indiana Will Lead Off With State-Wide Vote.

Washington, March 6.—The first presidential primary will take place in Indiana Tuesday when the state will hold a state-wide primary and elect delegates pledged to Charles W. Fairbanks, former vice-president, who will be put forward as the state's favorite son.

Indiana will also nominate a full state ticket for both parties. President Wilson is unopposed for the Democratic nomination and Vice President Marshall, whose name is on the ticket for renomination, will have no opposition.

Other Republican candidates for the presidential nomination have not entered Mr. Fairbank's state to canvas for delegates, extending to him the courtesy that has been given all "favorite sons." Indiana will choose thirty delegates.

Out of twenty-six delegates in Kentucky, Fairbanks will have sixteen, the other ten will be either for Hughes or Roosevelt.

Catarrh a Blood Disease

Drives It From Your System

Because Catarrh affects the nose and throat, causing sores in the nostrils, stoppage of air-passages, and gathering in the throat, it has been common practice to treat Catarrh with salves, washes and sprays. This mode of treatment cannot give permanent relief, and is liable to irritate and aggravate the trouble. Catarrh cannot be trifled with. If allowed to run on it will disease the bronchial tubes, settle on the lungs, affect the stomach. Don't treat it locally. The one treatment that has proven effective in the treatment of Catarrh is S. S. S. It is the greatest blood purifier and blood tonic known.

It relieves the cause of Catarrh by the process of renewing the blood, renewing its strength and vigor, giving new life to the red blood corpuscles and stimulating the flow so that it has the vitality to throw off the poison and germs from the system. It is literally a blood bath. You quickly feel results. Headaches disappear, the gathering in the throat stops, the nostrils heal—before you hardly realize it you are well. S. S. S. is a natural blood tonic, and has proven effective in the treatment of all blood affections. Get S. S. S. at your druggist's. If you need special advice write the Swift Specific Co., Atlanta, Ga.

World's Leading Tobacco Town.

Following are extracts from an address delivered by Col. A. D. Watts, Collector of Internal Revenue for the Fifth District of North Carolina, at a smoker given by The Twin City Club, Winston-Salem, February 4th, 1916: "Winston-Salem is supplying one-fourth of all the chewing and smoking tobacco consumed in the United States, besides exporting vast quantities to foreign lands. This statement is taken from the report of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue for the first quarter of the present fiscal year and from private advices from Washington, as to the second quarter, which ended December 31st, last.

"Your city is making one-seventh of all tobacco products—chewing and smoking tobacco, cigars, cigarettes and snuff—manufactured in the United States. Your manufacturers are paying on an average about $37,000 a day revenue taxes to the government and the amount is increasing from month to month. When your government building, much the handsomest in the State, was completed last July at a cost of $250,000 your newspapers made the statement that the taxes paid in your city to Uncle Sam for the first eight days of its occupancy would pay for it. Since September, it has taken only a fraction over seven average days collections here to equal its cost. So far this week, Mr. Cranford has taken in $206,428.50. I predict that before 1916 shall have ended your average weekly payments to the government on tobacco will more than pay for this magnificent building, leaving the collections for the other fifty-one weeks as clear profit to the government.

"Winston-Salem is shipping on an average each week day to all parts of this country and to foreign lands at least $150,000 of tobacco products. "In conclusion, Winston-Salem manufactures more tobacco, all tobacco products are taken into this statement, than any other city on earth, little or big. Industrially, she is easily first in North Carolina, population considered, first in America and I believe, in the world; socially, a never failing delight to her friends."

VERDUN DRIVE HELD UP AGAIN

Germans Fall Back Under the French Fire.

DOUAUMONT KEY POSITION

Attempt of Crown Prince's Army to Break Through the French Lines Are Futile and Accompanied by Heavy Losses.

Paris, March 6.—Another attempt by the crown prince's army to break through the French line Douaumont, north of Verdun, was made, but the line held and the Germans fell back to their own trenches under the fire of the French artillery.

A German force attacked in the woods just east of Vaucouville, a little to the west of the line against which the previous assault was directed, but with no more success.

In the contest for the possession of Verdun the operations have narrowed for the time being to the short sector about the plateau of Douaumont. The Germans concentrated their artillery fire on the restricted front between the Haudromont wood and Douaumont village. The bombardment was very violent. After great quantities of heavy shells had been thrown the German infantry made its charge at 6 o'clock. The attacking waves at once were brought under the Barrage fire of the French guns, with which machine guns and rifle firing co-operated, and they were unable to reach the French trenches.

At the village of Douaumont itself, where the Germans hold the village proper and the French are entrenched in the southern outskirts, fighting of considerable liveliness lasted well into the night without changing the situation.

The German artillery continued its firing with some intensity throughout the night on the whole front east of the Meuse and west of the river at Le Mort Homme and Cote de L'Oie.

The bombardment has increased in violence along the whole of this front, especially on the sector which had been attacked. But the attack was not repeated here. Instead the Germans shifted their assaulting columns to the west and sought to make an opening through the woods east of Vaucouville. Here again they were completely repulsed.

German troops being brought up to the fighting front were brought under the fire of the French artillery to the north of Vaucouville, and near Louvemont, northwest of Douaumont.

No infantry action is reported from the Woivre, but the artillery of both sides was very active about Fresnes and east of Haudromont.

The French artillery conducted a heavy bombardment of the German positions near the Binarville road, north of La Harazee, and at the Haute Chavauchee, in the Argonne.

The London war office issued the following statement:

"In a Zeppelin raid two hostile airships crossed the northeast coast. At present the movements of the raiders are not clearly defined.

"Some bombs dropped fell into the sea near the shore. Information is not yet available as to the damage done on land."

FIVE MEN LOST WITH BARGES

Five Others. Hauled Through Sea, Are Rescued Off Minot's Light.

Scituate, Mass., March 6.—Two light coal barges, the Ashland and Kohinoor, which broke adrift from the tug Swatara, in tow for Philadelphia, were wrecked on Minot's light ledges. Five men, the crew of the Kohinoor, were lost, and five men aboard the Ashland were washed ashore on the deck-house and hauled through the breakers to safety.

The North Scituate coast guard picked up the exhausted men from the Kohinoor, who died before the surf boat landed. The barges were owned by the Philadelphia & Reading Transportation company.

GOLDEN WEDDING OBSERVED WITHOUT DEATH IN FAMILY

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Ray, Pioneers of Scott County, Celebrate The Event.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Jefferson Ray, pioneers of Scott County and descendants of families which made Indiana history, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary today at the old homestead farm near Vienna. Around the hale old couple were all their children—two daughters and six sons, all married. There also were eighteen grandchildren and one great-grandson, completing four generations. There never has been a death in the family. The invitations to the Ray festival were sent broadcast; all friends and neighbors are welcome, for the Rays have declared "open house," and before the day is closed it is expected that 500 persons will have congratulated the couple and partaken of their hospitality.

Mr. Ray was born in 1844 and Miss Anna Collings, who became his wife, was born two years later. Miss Collings was a daughter of the Rev. Zebulon Collings, a noted Methodist preacher of pioneer days, who was one of the few Collings children escaping the Pigeon Roost massacre of 1812. Zebulon received shelter at Fort Collins, near Henryville, while the Indians were laying waste the farms and homes and hanging to their belts the scalps of twenty-two men, women and children of the Underwood settlement.

The sons of Mr. and Mrs. Ray are all prosperous farmers and business men. Amos L. Ray is a dealer in sporting goods in Louisville, Ky., with his sons. C. Wayne and H. Warren are officials of the Hoosier Casualty Company in Indianapolis. Gardner Z. Ray is an Indianapolis grocer. Ezra D. Ray is a Scott County farmer. Elmer Ray is a landscape architect and engineer in Indianapolis. The two daughters married farmers and are now Mrs. Alford Richey and Mrs. Charles J. Richey. Dr. Morris Ray of Louisville is a son of Amos L. Ray, and Morris Ray Jr. carries off the honors of the day as the first great grandchild. A host of cousins, aunts and uncles also will attend the celebration.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Ray are in excellent health and live alone on the farm. Mr. Ray is a veteran of the civil war, having served in Company K of the Sixty-sixth Indiana, which was recruited in Clark and Scott Counties. His grandfather, Thomas Ray, settled first in Jackson County, near Brownstown, but when he had almost completed his log cabin he noticed driftwood high up in some of the trees and accordingly sought higher ground. He settled in the Pigeon Roost valley on the farm where his grandson now resides.

JAMES WHITCOMB

(Continued.) In 1843 Whitcomb was the democratic nominee for governor and elected over F. S. Bigger by more than two thousand votes and three years later was re-elected by a much larger majority. He filled the executive chair during an eventful period of the state's history. The heavy debt incurred by the rage for internal improvements was now lifted. The establishment of asylums and reformatory institutions was undertaken, and more permanent funds provided for the support of the common schools. At the outbreak of the Mexican war he directed with much credit, the organization of five regiments of infantry. In 1849 Whitcomb was elected to the United States senate but owing to ill-health was never permitted to measure his talents with the great statesmen then in public life. He died in New York City in 1852. At the time of his death, Senator Whitcomb was vice-president of the American Bible Society. His only child a daughter, became the wife of Claude Matthews, later governor of Indiana. She thus had the unique distinction of being a daughter of, and a wife of a governor.

LEBANON H. S. SEES VICTORY IN TOURNAMENT

Thornton, Last Year's Champion, is Greatest Terror to Teams in That Section.

By United Press. Lebanon, Ind., March 6.—After most of the teams have finished their schedules, and with the sectional basketball tournament to be held here on March 10 and 11, the local quintet looms up as a likely contender for the trip to Bloomington. Out of the fourteen teams from Clinton, Hendricks, and Boone counties that will battle here, Lebanon has the best record, winning fourteen out of eighteen contests.

Thornton, last year's champion is the local's greatest terror. During the early season, the champs defeated Lebanon 17 to 12, but later Lebanon succeeded in getting revenge in an overtime contest, 21 to 19.

Rossville is the third dangerous contender. Thornton defeated the Clinton county lads twice during the season, the last contest being an overtime battle won by a foul, 18 to 17. Last year, Rossville was the runner-up in the sectional.

Not much is expected from Hendricks county, although six teams are entered. Danville is considered the strongest from this territory.

Frankfort probably has the most unique record of any of the teams. Out of nineteen games on the regular schedule, but one victory was recorded—the last game. This was a contest with Delphi which Frankfort won, 44 to 9.

Tender Teeth—the first sign of Pyorrhea

When you brush your teeth, does it feel as though you were brushing against the quick? Do the gums sometimes bleed? This is because pyorrhea has caused the gums to pull away from your teeth, leaving the unenamelled surfaces unprotected.

Your dentist will tell you, if you ask him, that you have gum recession; and that gum recession is caused by pyorrhea.

Unchecked, pyorrhea will warp and shrink and deform the gums. It will break down the bony structure into which the teeth are set—and you will eventually lose them. To save your teeth you will have to begin to fight this dread disease at once.

A specific for pyorrhea has been discovered recently by dental science, and is now offered for daily treatment in Senreco Tooth Paste. Senreco combats the germ of the disease. Its regular use insures your teeth against the attack or further progress of pyorrhea.

But Senreco does more. It cleanses the teeth delightfully. It gives them a whiteness distinctive of Senreco alone. Its flavor is entirely pleasing, and it leaves in the mouth a wonderful sense of coolness and wholesomeness.

Start the Senreco treatment before pyorrhea grips you for good. Details in folder with every tube. A two-ounce tube of 25c is sufficient for 6 weeks' daily treatment. Get Senreco of your druggist today; or send 4c in stamps or coin for sample tube and folder. Address The Sentinal Remedies Company 503 Union Central Building, Cincinnati, Ohio.

THE PRIMARIES.

Tomorrow the voters of this county will nominate their candidates for office and express their preference for state and national officers. Theoretically the primary law was designed to place absolute power in the hands of the people. Whether or not it will do this remains to be seen. Any law which deprives a citizen of the right which the law gives him of voting for whom he pleases is a menace to the fundamental principles of democratic government.

Viewed in this light no law which would prevent a voter from supporting whom he pleases—unless it is clearly apparently that he is willfully violating the statute to prevent the very ends of the law—is not constitutional. A man's political faith is to be decided by himself. No law can make a voter a Republican, Democrat or Progressive. That is a matter to be decided by the voter himself.

It is unnecessary to say, therefore, that a Progressive can vote in the Republican primaries without any liability attaching to such act. If the law could be interpreted any other way it would be in direct contravention to the inalienable right which the Constitution of the United States and the Constitution of Indiana give to every man. In 1912 and two years ago many Republicans supported the Progressive ticket for reasons which were personal. That act, however, did not and does not make them Progressives unless they desire to affiliate with that party in the future. Most of them were at heart Republicans and have returned to the Republican fold. Is Indiana to be placed in the control of political schemers who will take away a man's constitutional right of voting as he pleases to gain their own selffish ends? The people of this grand old state, who place honor and principle above petty politics, will oppose such attempts as long as they have the power of the ballot.

Such moves as these are inevitable "comebacks." If any party while in power insists upon divorcing recognized rights from the people and the voters the regime of that organization is limited.

OFFICE SEEKERS CONFIDENT

With Favorable Weather a Heavy Republican Vote is Expected—Senatorial Race.

(By Dan L. Beebe, United Press Staff Correspondent.)

Indianapolis, March 6—Knowing that the time for campaigning has passed, Indiana's fifteen thousand office seekers rested on their oars to-day waiting for to-morrow when the state will hold its first general primary election.

Optimism beamed from the countenance of every campaign manager and oozed from campaign headquarters. The three republican candidates for U. S. senator were "confident" of victory. Both James E. Watson and Harry S. New claimed they would be nominated by a majority at the polls and that the nomination would not go to the convention.

The same was true of the republican candidates for governor. All predicted landslides.

Although tomorrow's weather will have much to do with the vote total, political seers have estimated today that at least 60 per cent of the voters who generally take part in elections will vote at the republican primary to-morrow. This was the percentage also fixed by one of the leaders in the republican party of the state.

Because the democrats have few contests, their vote will not be as large, it is generally admitted. Some said today that the democrats will be lucky if they poll a 33 per cent vote.

Ed Jackson of Newcastle is the only unopposed republican on the state ticket.

James E. Watson, republican candidate for U. S. senator is "serenely confident," to use the words of Elan H. Neal, his campaign manager. He expects to get more votes than Harry

New and Arthur Robinson taken together, if Neal's statement is taken at its face value.

At the headquarters of Mr. New there was equal confidence. Edward H. Schmidt former U. S. marshal, New's campaign manager said New would carry every district.

At the headquarters of Arthur R. Robinson whose campaign for nomination has consisted almost entirely of his personal efforts, the following statement was made:

"After ten months of personal activity by Sen. Arthur R. Robinson, reports indicate his nomination in a landslide."

None of the three republican candidates for governor was outwardly blue today. J. W. McCardle, campaign manager for James P. Goodrich predicted a "walkaway" for the latter. "Mr. Goodrich has 83 counties organized better than for the average pre-election campaign. He will have a walkaway."

Warren T. McCray is expecting a landslide for him, according to word today from his headquarters. The following statement was issued:

"Mr. McCray will be nominated in a landslide. That tells the entire story."

The statement issued at the headquarters of Quincy A. Myers:

"The day after the primary, there will be one republican candidate for governor and that will be Quincy A. Myers."

Lew Ellingham, manager for J. A. M. Adair, the democratic candidate for governor claimed practically every county for Adair.

"Indications are that Adair will receive a handsome majority in practically every county in the state," said Ellingham.

J. C. Webb, manager for Adair's opponent, Leonard B. Clore, said Clore would be nominated, possibly by a landslide.

"It has been a growing fight from the start," Webb said, "Interest in Clore has increased by leaps and bounds. It looks like Clore's nomination—possibly by a landslide."

TO MY FRIENDS:

I am sorry that I have been unable to see each one of you personally before the primary. My recent illness, which necessitated a trip to Florida, has prevented that. I am glad to say, however, that I have regained my health, and was informed yesterday by my physician, Dr. Graessle, that I am in better condition than I have been for years.

I am informed that it has been reported that my physical condition was such that I would be unable to make the race or to fill the office if elected. I hope the above statement will answer that report. I do not want any Democrat to support one of my opponents merely because he believes I am not able to make the race.

I confidently expect to be nominated and elected, and will appreciate your support.

San Diego, Cal., March 6.—Six seamen working in the hold of the United States torpedo destroyer Preble were badly burned through the explosion of a can of gasoline. One of the men is said to be in a serious condition.

All the men were removed to the mother ship Iris and given medical treatment. At the time of the accident the Preble was tied up at the municipal wharf undergoing repairs to a damaged rudder.

TEACH CHILDREN VALUE OF THRIFT

Seeking to Start 50,000 New Bank Accounts in New York.

THE CITY IS FAR BEHIND.

Few of the Public Schools Have Institutions For Savings—American Bankers' Association and School Boards Co-operate to Establish Banks For Pupils Everywhere.

Fifty thousand dimes.
Fifty thousand school children.
Fifty thousand bank accounts.
To bring these three groups together is the object of the "dimes to dollars" campaign launched in New York by the board of education and the American Bankers' association.
One hundred new savings banks are to be opened in the public schools of the city this year, the hundredth anniversary of the savings bank in America. The American Bankers' association is arranging for the banks, the board of education is supervising plans within the schools, and they are to provide one dime for each 50,000 children to open a savings account.

Nobody is barred from contributing. Each dime contributed will be the tenth dime in a dollar deposit opened by some child in the schools, thus giving him a savings account of $1 as a nucleus with which to work toward a regular bank account.

It is said New York city lags behind the country in its encouragement of thrift in the public schools. Only thirty-five school savings banks are in operation, with only about 1,800 depositors, owning approximately 175,000 dimes. Installed in 1913, these thirty-five savings banks have transferred about 1,200 accounts to regular banks. So much for what New York city has done.

There are still 514 schools in the city that have no banks for the children.

To encourage the habit of saving and establish banks this year in at least a hundred of the schools this campaign is opened.

Schools and Banks Co-operate.
Associate superintendent of the city schools, Edward B. Shallow, is honorary chairman of the school committee working in conjunction with the bankers. A. N. Clark, originator of the "Brooklyn plan" of savings bank operation in schools, is active head of the committee.

Mr. Clark is a believer not only in the savings idea for children, but is an advocate of the method that teaches the children to handle the money for themselves as clerks, tellers and bankers.

This campaign is part of one that covers the entire country.

The public savings banks in which the school banks deposit their funds will guarantee a small bank equipment for each school. A large stationery house will provide paper supplies.

All that is needful now to arrange for the actual opening of the hundred new school banks is the education of the children to the saving spirit and to provide them with a dime each. When they have earned nine dimes each themselves, 50,000 bank accounts of ten dimes each may be started.

SWISS TAKE WAR INVALIDS.

Two Hundred French and German Consumptive Arrive in Berne.

Two hundred consumptive prisoners of war arrived in Berne the other day. Half of them are French prisoners from Germany and the remainder German prisoners from France. They are the first soldiers to be brought to Switzerland under the agreement recently made for the treatment of consumptives at health resorts of that country. The French prisoners are bound for Leysand and the Germans for Davos.

The French and German governments have given orders to the men to make no attempt to escape, and if any of them should do so they would be treated as deserters and subject to court martial. They will not be watched by the Swiss authorities. Each nation will pay the cost of maintaining its own soldiers.

It is expected that about 20,000 Frenchmen and as many Germans will be permitted to avail themselves of treatment in Switzerland. Three hundred rheumatic prisoners of war from Germany and France will be cared for at Baden, near Zurich.

Although in many instances the soldiers were affected with incipient tuberculosis before the time of mobilization, the malady has developed in their term of service on account of exposure and other hardships.

MEAL TICKETS PAY FOR FARM

Joking Remark of Real Estate Agent Results in Unique Deal.

"I have no money to put in a Wisconsin farm," insisted Angus Cameron, proprietor of a St. Paul (Minn.) hotel, when urged by F. W. Lapham, real estate man, to purchase an equity in a farm.

"Then give me $1,200 in meal tickets," suggested Lapham, as he started to leave.

"If you will take the meal tickets I will give them," snapped Cameron. Lapham considered a moment, then accepted. Cameron is now a farm owner, and Lapham is taking friends to Cameron's hotel for dinners.

JAPAN HAS HER "WAR BRIDES" TOO

Millionaires Made by Selling Goods to Belligerents.

ARMS SALE IS $34,500,000

Shipping, Mining and Other Industries Thrive and Invention Feels Big Spur Munitions on Hand Are Being Sold to Russia—Scientists, Spurred by Necessity, Make Many Inventions.

While because of the war depression prevails in certain lines of industry and business, yet in shipping circles there is tremendous activity, says a Tokyo dispatch. It is reported in the Japan Times that several new millionaires have been developed since the outbreak of the war.

The paper gives the names of certain fortunate ones. One young clerk in the Kobe office of the Mitsui company is said to have made 2,000,000 yen ($1,000,000) in one year by chartering small vessels at first and after ward larger steamers. Almost fabulous prices are now paid by charterers who also make big money. The Tokyo small shipping companies have been suddenly metamorphosed into big and busy concerns. One such company is reported to have netted $5,000,000.

The mining industry also is having an unusually good season. The price of zinc, for instance, has run up five fold since the beginning of the war.

In this connection I may add that Mr. Asano, who is already a multi-millionaire and is also president of the Toyo Kisen Kaisha, the chief steamship line running between Japan and California, is reported to have decided to establish a ship building yard. It will be at Tsurumi, near Yokohama and will cost $2,500,000. Mr. Asano deems this step necessary to keep pace with the progress of the shipping industry.

Stimulus to Invention.

One of the best phases of the benefit that the war is bringing to Japan is evident in the stimulus to Japanese invention. This is especially seen in scientific lines, in which Japan had been too content to follow the lead of Germany. But now that trade with Germany is cut off and supplies of many materials are lacking the Japanese are thrown on their own resources. In consequence Japanese scientists are busily engaged in experiments, some of which have already produced good results. For instance, Professor Inouye of the Ueda Sericultural college in Nagano prefecture has discovered a method of getting chroinin from the silk worm chrysalis.

The necessities of the time have also given an impetus to the plan for the establishment of a great chemical laboratory, which has long been a pending question in the imperial university circles.

Gun Throws Grappling Iron.

That "necessity is the mother of invention" has again been illustrated in the matter described in the following paragraphs from the Japan Times:

"The anti-entanglement gun on which Captain Ochi has recently obtained a patent is intended to throw a specially prepared grappling iron to the wire entanglements, which can be manipulated so as to destroy them by an operative remaining out of range of hostile fire. Even if the wires be highly charged with electricity, the operative can efficiently work the grapple with impunity, as it is completely insulated. The invention is expected by the experts to bring about a revolution in position tactics.

"The captain is a youthful officer. The recent invention is said to have had its inception during his bitter experiences with the entanglements when he took part in the siege of Port Arthur. For ten years since then he has worked upon the idea. He intends to apply for a patent on his invention to England, France, Russia and the United States and to have it employed in the European war if possible."

The paymaster general of the army has given the diet some figures of the sales of munitions of war, which he figures have amounted to more than 60,000,000 yen ($34,500,000), of which almost 40,000,000 yen's worth were sold in 1915. In addition to this, almost 20,000,000 yen has been realized from the sale of military shoes and clothing. The arms and other munitions sold are those taken as prizes and those purchased for the imperial army in the Russo-Japanese war. Japan will have a new supply.

The minister of war assured the diet that there was no fear of a deficiency in the supply of ordnance for national defense. He also explained how the government was taking means to replace the arms sold; how the arms necessary for the mobilization of troops were prepared, and how the necessary arrangements had been made with private factories to supplement the work of the arsenals.

These arrangements were temporarily suspended because of misunderstandings, but seem to have been resumed.

Veteran of 1870 Again Fighting.
Corporal Sarrugue, aged seventy-six and a veteran of the Franco-Prussian war, is today fighting in the ranks for France. Forty-five years ago he won the Legion of Honor medal; today he wears the war cross, recently bestowed upon him for gallantry.

A NOVEL

By GEORGE AGNEW CHAMBERLAIN

Copyright by The Century Co.

Clem's was not the only troubled heart on the Hill. At The Firs Mrs. Lansing moved restlessly from room to room and stopped often to read and re-read a crumpled note—Gerry's note to Alix.

Alix was still in town. Mrs. Lansing had written to her and then wired. Alix replied telling her not to come, that she wished to be alone. For hours at a time Mrs. Lansing replaced the nurse at Gerry, junior's, side. He helped her. She felt that he could help Alix.

She was almost glad when he developed some trifling ailment becoming to his years. She wired again and this time Alix came, frightened. Alix was like a wilted flower, but she braced herself until Gerry, junior, recovered into his healthy self. Then she drooped once more and refused to be comforted.

If it had not been for Alan, Alix' trouble would have cast a gloom over the rest of Red Hill, but it was known that Alan had sought out Mrs. Lansing and told her 'that not even he knew just how Gerry's battle stood, but that he did know that there was a battle and that Gerry would surely come back as soon as he had fought his way clear.

So the Hill in general went almost untroubled on its way trying to forget that it was still awaiting a fulfillment, and even Alix began to glean a little comfort from the thought that hope was but deferred. Her heart was sick, her faith weak, but hope still lived. She clung through the long days to Gerry, junior, and waited.

At Maple House the beating of young hearts amounted to a din, but it was suddenly stilled by a day of drenching rain. After the very tame excitement of seeing J. Y. and the judge off for the city, gloom settled in the faces of the children. Cousin Tom, in rubber boots and coat, came down the road from Elm House to find company for misery. The barn was requisitioned and became the scene of a subdued frolic, but it afforded meager diversion. The hay was not in yet, the empty lofts were dreary. In the afternoon Mrs. J. Y. was besieged to surrender the house and finally did. Alan had gone to his room and closed the door. The captain was plunged in invulnerable slumber.

Somebody rapped at Alan's door and he called, "Come in." The door opened and revealed Nance, junior. Behind her was a giggling, whispering throng. The spirit of fun danced in Nance's eyes. Her cheeks were flushed and her golden head was in disarray. "Oh, Cousin Alan," she cried, "grandma's given us leave for hide and seek and we're all going to play except mother and grandma and the captain. Please come, too, Cousin Alan."

From behind her came a modified echo, "Please do, Cousin Alan." Alan smiled and laid down his book. "All right," he laughed.

Maple House was a rambling abode that had grown and spread like the giant maples that sheltered it. In what age the captain had demanded a wing or some bygone Nance a nursery for her children was chronicled in the annals of the house itself, to be revealed only to the searching, architectural eye. The key to the rambling structure lay in the thick-walled dining room, the parlor, one bedroom and the kitchen.

From the nucleus of these four rooms Maple House had grown, imposed and superimposed, until it overflowed the arbitrary bounds of kitchens and front doors and like some mounded vine rippled off on all sides, in vast living room, sunny nurseries and a broken fringe of broad verandas. There were nooks that were satisfied and held back from further encroachment and there were outstanding corners that jutted boldly out over the sloping lawns and threatened a further raid.

Inside, the paths of daily life ran clearly enough through the maze, but on their flanks hung many a sordid den for ambush or retreat. Cavernous closets, shadowy corners, lumbered attics and half-forgotten interstices of discarded space opened dark gorges to the intrepid, and threatened the nervous and unwary with what they might bring forth. The gods of childhood's games themselves could not have builded a better scene for that most palpitating of sports, hide and seek on a rainy day.

Alan soon entered into the spirit of the game. He found himself recollecting things about Maple House that he had more than half forgotten; strange byways under the roof; a vacant chamber, turned into a trunk room because one by one it had been robbed of its windows; and lastly the little attic that had been, as it were, left behind a wall.

Through this dreamland of a hundred children flitted the brood of the day, marshaled rather breathlessly by Clem and Alan. Anxious whispers, the scurrying of lightly shod feet, then a sudden silence but for the furtive counting of some juvenile lit, were followed by sudden screams and a wild race for the goal. Maple House had never countenanced the effete and diluted sport of I Spy; it was all for hide and seek, where you had to hold your man when found or beat him to the goal.

Great was the excitement when the littlest of all caught Cousin Alan by a tackle around the ankle that spoke a volume of promise for the littlest of his academic career and brought a glow of achievement to his perspiring face. Alan was placed at the newel at the foot of the great staircase and duly admonished in treble voices not to look. The treble voices rained excited instructions on him, carried away by youth's confidence in its ability to teach its grandmother how to suck eggs. Alan started to count slowly in sonorous tones. With a last shriek and the patter of many feet the trebles faded away into silence.

Alan crept stealthily up the stairs. Out of the corner of his eye he caught sight of the twitching jumpers of the littlest, who was too fat to quite fit the retreat he had chosen. But Alan did not quite see until it was too late. The littlest exploded the vast breath he had been holding in and plunged headlong down the stairs. As he rolled by the newel he stuck out a sturdy arm and held fast. He shouted a pean of victory and once more palpitating silence fell on the house.

Alan wondered if he could find the way to the little attic. He hurried along the twisted halls, up a tiny flight of steps, turned, dived through a low, narrow tunnel and threw open the long-forgotten door. It was as though he had suddenly opened a portal on his own childhood. A great, pensioned rocking chair held the middle of the floor as within his ken it always had held it. Ancient garments hung from pegs on the walls and from hooks on the rafters. A box or two and more disabled furniture littered the floor. The whole was faintly lit up by the light from a little dormer window. Nothing stirred. Alan drew a long breath. He was not disappointed. No one had thought to come here but himself.

Suddenly a bit of the pendent wardrobe was flung aside and an apparition dashed for the door. Alan sprang in front of it, threw his arms around it, held it tight. It struggled, laughed, ceased to struggle, and looked up as Alan looked down. Clem's face was very near to his. Her body, still throbbing bing with excitement, was in his arms. Alan felt such a rioting surge in his blood as he had never known before. He wanted to kiss Clem. He felt that he must kiss her, that there was not strength enough left in him to do anything else. Then his eyes met hers and he forgot himself and remembered Clem. His soul cried, "Sacrilege," and he dropped his arms from about her and stepped back.

Clem stood before him, dazed. She was in her stocking feet. In each hand she held a little slipper. Her eyes were big and full of the soft reproach of the mortally wounded. Alan felt ashamed and looked away. He had to break the silence. "Well, you're caught," he said lamely.

Clem dropped one slipper, threw up her hand and brushed the disordered hair from her forehead. "Yes, I'm caught," she said, and her lip trembled on the words.

Beans!

Senator Hoar used to tell with glee of a southerner just home from a visit to New England who said to his friend: "You know those little white round beans?" "Yes," replied the friend, "the kind we feed to our horses?" "The very same. Well, do you know, suh, that in Boston the enlightened citizens take those little white round beans, boil them for three or four hours, mix them with molasses and I know not what other ingredients, bake them, and then—what do you suppose they do with the beans?"

"They"—
"They eat 'em, suh," interrupted the first southerner impressively. "Suh, they eat 'em!"

The "Long" Sitzes.

The Sitz family was long in person, long drawn out in speech and eternally long about doing things. Over miles of pine hills they were known as the "long" Sitzes. Miss Lydia, the eldest, went to a crossroads store to buy Christmas presents. In the course of a half hour she became interested in some blue and scarlet petticoats.

"I'll take one of these petticoats," she said, slowly counting out the price. The busy proprietor wrapped up the parcel and handed it over with a polite "Something else?"

"I'll take another petticoat." He did up a second bundle, took her carefully counted money and was turning to the next impatient customer.

"I'll take another petticoat," came the slow drawl.

This went on to the seventh time. The man, being up to his ears in work, ventured a question:

"Buying for the neighborhood, Miss Lydia?"

"I'm buying two apiece for my sisters."

"How many sisters have you?"

"Nine."—Youth's Companion.

TALES OF TURKISH NERVE.

They Take a Chance With Death Just For the Sport of the Thing, While the Germans Are More Cautious—How Aviator Fooled British and Attacked Vessel.

"Humors of War in the Air" is the subject of an interesting article in the Daily Express by Mr. C. M. Grey, editor of the Aeroplane, in which he narrates an aviator's version of the old farce "Box and Cox" and some incidents of Turkish "cheek."

"A story that appeared in a Turkish communique the other day relating how a Turkish aviator dropped bombs near one of the allies' cruisers and caused her to change her course, after which he attacked a destroyer with his machine gun," he writes, "is probably something of an exaggeration, but it would be quite a mistake to put it down as an absolute fabrication because people who have returned from the Dardanelles have quite a high opinion of the Turks as fighting men and even respect their aviators. The Turkish communique refers to the aviator as a Turk, but the pilots of the Turkish aeroplanes have been Germans chiefly.

"There is one incident, however, related to me by an officer who has just returned from Gallipoli of which the hero was more likely to have been a Turk than a German, for the German, although he may on occasion fight quite well, does not apparently believe in taking chances purely as a sport.

The Diving Aeroplane.

"One night when things were fairly calm both in the air and on the ground the sound of an aeroplane engine was heard approaching the British lines. It drew nearer and nearer, and it was evident from the sound that the aviator was flying very low. Suddenly he appeared over a certain part of the British camp so low that he could have been hit with a revolver if anybody had seen him in time. As he went he dropped several bombs, which did no particular harm. Half a dozen officers rushed out of their tents and began firing at him. The sound of his engine stopped, and his machine was seen to throw up its tail and dive down over the cliff at the edge of the plateau on which the camp stood.

"Everybody thought he had been hit and had fallen into the sea or on the sand just over the cliff edge. Much to their surprise, a few seconds afterward his engine was heard running again, and a minute or so later there was a burst of firing a mile or two out at sea.

"Next morning a destroyer came in and said that, hearing the noise of bombs in the camp, some of the officers had come up on deck and were looking up at the shore when suddenly an aeroplane dived off the cliff, flew straight at them almost level with the water and as it passed they raked them from end to end with a machine gun.

"The seaplane pilots also have their humorous incidents. Some little time ago one of the smaller seaplanes was getting off the water when a wave struck it, and it turned over on one side and dived head first.

A Grim Joke.

"As the machine struck the water the passenger was thrown clear, but the pilot, who stuck to his lever, went under with the machine and was more or less trapped. The passenger naturally came up first and, not seeing the pilot, took a long breath and dived under the wreck to his help. Meantime the pilot, having freed himself from the machine, came up to find himself under one of the wings. He worked along this till he got to the edge and came to the surface apparently just about a second after the passenger had dived. Not seeing the passenger he also took a deep breath and dived to rescue the passenger.

"By this time the passenger had reached the limit of his diving capacity and came up again for breath after the pilot had again disappeared. After again taking in fresh air he dived for the pilot just as the pilot came to the surface for the second time only to find that his passenger was still apparently in the wreck. In this way each of them dived four or five times until finally one of them came to the conclusion that the other must by this time have been drowned, so he sat on one of the floats to wait mournfully till he was picked up by one of the boats which was coming out from the shore.

"A second or two afterward up came the other officer, also convinced that his friend was dead. Each was naturally surprised at the wonderful capacity of the other for stopping under water till explanations made clear what had happened, after which they both nearly fell into the sea again laughing at one another."

TELLS OF HIS TERM IN A PRISON CAMP

German Had Successful Business When War Began.

LIBERATED THROUGH ENVOY

Rushed From His Place of Business, Where He Employed 150 Men, to Detention Camp Without Any Notice Everything Is Lost, Although He Had Been in England For Twenty Years.

Henry Cohn, who has just been set free through efforts of the British ambassador after fifteen months in a British concentration camp, was reunited to some of his relatives in New York, including a brother whom he had not seen for ten years. The brother is George Cohn, who is in business at Louisville, Ky. The latter with the aid of influential Americans obtained the release of his brother through Ambassador Cecil Spring-Rice.

Henry Cohn was thirty-nine years old when he was arrested in his office in Cardiff, Wales, because of his German ancestry. A photograph taken a few weeks previously showed him in perfect health. Now he is hollow cheeked and he seemed to have aged ten years in the interval, his relatives declared.

"It's worry that gets a man in the concentration camp," said he in explanation of his changed appearance. He had no complaint to make of the physical conditions that affected him while he was a civilian prisoner. He said he supposed the British government acted as best it could under the circumstances and in coping with the unexpected situations it had to meet.

Henry Cohn was seventeen years old when he left his home at Hamburg, Germany, and went to Wales, where he had since lived. He established a photographic manufacturing business in Cardiff, where he had 150 employees and 35 other employees in two shops and a studio. His sister acted as his housekeeper. His story of what occurred to him after the commencement of the war is interesting chiefly because it portrays the general experience of all aliens there.

Sister Had to Leave Country.

Because of his standing in the community English friends had obtained for him a permit, one of eleven special orders allotted among 1,300 aliens under the ban, granting him permission to remain in charge of his business. This continued until Oct. 22, when he was placed under arrest, taken to a cell without being allowed to go home even for an hour or to arrange his business affairs and next day was sent with many others to Hartforth camp, near Manchester, according to his story.

His sister was permitted to continue the business six months, when she was ordered to leave the country within twenty-four hours. She went back to Hamburg, where her mother, now seventy-eight years old, is living. Cohn says he never has been able to find what became of his business or of the furnishings of his home, nor did he receive a penny from any of his property from that time.

The ability of Cohn caused his fellow inmates of the camp to appoint him their general secretary, in which capacity he represented the 4,000 prisoners in dealing with the commandant. Through his efforts, aided financially by Dr. K. E. Markel, an English philanthropist, and Secretary Hibberd of the International Y. M. C. A. at New York, paints and drawing materials were obtained for the artists in the camp, tools were provided for the mechanics, workshops established, and soon the prisoners were making useful articles and art objects that were sold and the proceeds applied to the use of prisoners without funds.

"These among the prisoners who had friends able to help them from outside or had money in bank from which they were permitted to draw about $20 monthly, were able to provide better far for themselves and to help others," said Cohn. "This was the limit of the amount a prisoner was permitted to draw from his bank account at one time. He could also draw $30 for the use of his wife and family. What became of the wives and families of the men who had no means other than their earnings up to the time of their arrest was one of the things that tortured the inmates.

Details His Prison Rations.

"The regular fare consisted of a cup of coffee or tea for breakfast, with a three-quarter loaf of bread and one ounce of oleomargarine, the latter two a supply for the entire day; rice or beans or peas, three to four ounces of meat for the noon meal and a cup of coffee at night, all cooked by ourselves. This was sufficient for some, but not enough for the average workman."

"What I hope to do here before making any plans for my own future is get some help for the thousands of men confined in the British camps who are guiltless of any crime but that of having relatives who were natives of an enemy country by making arrangements for selling the things they are making in the prison camps. Most of them are loyal British residents, many also having married Englishwomen. I shall also try to have influential persons take up with the state department the project of having these men released and permitted to land here."

INDIANA RAILROADS ARE ENFORCING NEW STATUTE

Law Prohibits Intoxicated Men From Riding on Passenger Trains in the State.

The new Indiana law making it an offense for an intoxicated man to ride on a passenger train is being rigidly enforced by employees of the Indiana railroads. While the law has been enforced in extreme cases heretofore, the railroad companies have notified their employees to exclude all intoxicated men from passenger coaches. No agent is allowed to sell a ticket to a man intoxicated, but it is said that recently on a certain road that in order to avoid this law a number of men have purchased tickets and then proceeded to "tank" up. The company instructed its employees that in all such cases hereafter the possession of a ticket will not entitle an intoxicated man to ride on its train.

The local division of the Baltimore & Ohio Southwestern Railroad is making a special effort to enforce this law. Several arrests have been made here but thus far the defendants have only been charged with intoxication so that they would not be liable to the heavier fine which is provided under the act pertaining especially to Ben Davis, Martinsville, New Bethel and such defendants on second offense will be prosecuted under the new law.

MANUAL TRAINING HIGH SCHOOL MAY TAKE HONORS

Eleven Schools to Compete in Basket Ball Tournament at Martinsville.

By United Press.
Martinsville, Ind., March 6.—Eleven high schools will be represented this year at the sectional basket ball meet to be held here March 10 and 11 to decide which school shall compete in the state meet at Bloomington, March 17 and 18.

Manual training high school from Indianapolis, Southport and Martinsville seem to share honors about evenly as probable winners. Very few of the schools in this section have competed against each other and comparative scores are scarce. Manual Training High school will be the darkhorse of the meet as it has not met any other team in this section. Martinsville has been going good all season, while Southport has more than held her own.

The complete list of teams in this section follows:
Mooreville, Southport, New Augusta, Broad Ripple, Manual, Valley Mills, West Newton, Ben Davis, Martinsville, New Bethel and Technical High school from Indianapolis.

BAD BOY PROBLEM TO BE CONSIDERED

Important Questions to Come Before Conference of Charities and Corrections.

SESSION AT INDIANAPOLIS

New Angles of Immigration Question Resulting for War will be Discussed.

By United Press.
Indianapolis, March 6.—The immigration problem—one of the oldest of American sociological questions—will take on a new angle at the May 10 to 17 meeting of the National Conference of Charities and Corrections when it convenes here in its forty-third annual meeting.

Sociologists from every corner of the United States, business men, editors, teachers, and preachers will present their opinions and attempt a solution of Uncle Sam's newest "new citizen" problem—what he will do with the mass of human wreckage that may or may not drift to his shores after the European war. This problem will be the keynote of the section of the conference to deal with unemployment in America. A high official supervising the United States service is expected to speak at the close of the war.

The immigration problem, however, by no means will be the only one to be taken up by the 43rd conference. From "kiver to kiver," chapter by chapter, in big problems and little problems, the text book of modern sociology will be thumbed for old and new problems by more than 2,500 men and women engaged in charitable and correctional work in the United States and Canada.

The bad boy with all the good and bad in him, policemen and police-women, public schools and churches, civic work of small communities, health and saloons, feeble-minded and insane, and every other social force, agency, and evil will be given a place in the more than sixty meetings to be held during the session. Popular gatherings during the week are expected to attract large audiences.

The list of speakers and directors of sectional meetings includes men and women in every branch of charitable and correctional work, while the meetings of more than half a dozen allied organizations to be held in connection with the general conference will add to the national importance of the meetings.

Some of the speakers are: Graham Romeyn Taylor, New York; Police Commissioner Arthur Woods, New York; Mrs. Alice Stebbins Wells, Los Angeles, policewoman; William Wirt, Gary, Ind., Dr. C. A. L. Reed, Cincinnati, formerly president of the American Medical Association; Dr. E. E. Southard, superintendent of the Boston Psychopathic Hospital; Joseph P. Byers, Philadelphia; James Mullenbach, Chicago; Miss Anna Herkner, of the Maryland Bureau of Statistics and Information; Raymond A. Hover, LaSalle, Ill.

The opening meeting will be held on the evening of May 10 when Father Francis H. Gavisk, Indianapolis, president of the conference, will deliver his address.
